Maria Andzelm was a Catholic teenager whose family took in two Jewish men in Nazi-occupied Poland and hid them under their barn floor. She brought them food and books, but they were caught and paid a terrible price. Maria's stirring story is one of five featured in this important book of young people putting their lives on the line for others. (Nonfiction)	2
	Milkweed Spinelli, Jerry. Milkweed. New York: Scholastic Inc, 2004.	He has no name, no home, no family and no background. He steals food, sleeps in the street and survives by not getting caught. He sleeps in a cellar with a band of boys who are just like him, who steal to stay alive and do their best to go unnoticed by the Jackboots. It is not safe to be a Jew, a Roma or a homeless orphan. The best thing to be is invisible. (Fiction)	2

	More Than Any Child Should Know Thompson, Julia and Regelbrugge, Paul. More Than Any Child Should Know. Seattle: Holocaust Center for Humanity, 2021.	What is it like for a child of eight to leave the only home he's ever known, traveling alone by land and sea to an uncertain future? Born in 1930 to a German-Jewish family, Steve was one of the lucky ones: finding refuge from persecution and danger during the Holocaust, in England and later the United States. This true story takes the reader swirling along with moments in history as seen through Steve's eyes. Steve's refugee story transcends time and place to illuminate the costs of war and bigotry, while also offering a beacon of human hope and resilience. (Nonfiction)	4

Lulu.com, 2019.	This is the story of how one Jewish boy and 400 others were protected in a "yellow star house." The house was converted into a hospital run by Jewish doctors designed to treat everyone -- even their wounded enemies, free of charge. The Jewish residents were ultimately saved in this way by a man who posed as an Arrow Cross officer and risked his own life countless times while over 70,000 Jews were being murdered at the Danube or dying in ghettos. (Nonfiction)	4
	Survivors: True Stories of Children in the Holocaust Zullo, Allan. Survivors: True Stories of Children in the Holocaust. New York: Wordsellers, 2004.	These are the true-life accounts of nine Jewish boys and girls whose lives spiraled into danger and fear as the Holocaust overtook Europe. In a time of great horror, these children each found a way to make it through the nightmare of war. Some made daring escapes into the unknown, others disguised their true identities, and many witnessed unimaginable horrors. But what they all shared was the unshakable belief in-- and hope for-- survival. (Nonfiction)	2
	We Are Not Strangers: A Graphic Novel Tuininga, Josh. We Are Not Strangers: A Graphic Novel. New York: Harry N. Abrams, 2023.
